

THE ei KHADIJA SAYE SCHOLARSHIPS

Named in honour of Khadija Saye, our young 'early riser' artist member who died in Grenfell Tower in June 2017.

Editorial Intelligence is a content and connection business which applies the network science of connection to build diversity into its activities: diversity of background, profession and age in particular.

Since 2009 our 'scholar programme' has piloted with networks such as Creative Access, The Taylor Bennett Foundation and Year Here to identify those young and talented individuals who cannot afford to join our club by themselves, and who do not have a corporate employer who can provide it under their L&D or Wellbeing programme.

"Blown Away - Enriching, absorbing and slick"

- Michael Simpson, Year Here on his experience as a scholar at Names Not Numbers

The programme, whilst small, has been a huge success: Our 'grown-up' corporate members from companies such as Vodafone or Barclays (both early supporters of the scheme) have blended beautifully with our younger scholars. Both sides have benefitted.

Now we want to go further, in honour of Khadija Saye.

"I would like to express my sincere gratitude for the opportunity to experience all the ei delights. It's really opened my eyes to new ways of thinking and connecting with people. Truly inspiring!"

- Khadija Saye in an email to ei Founder Julia Hobsbawm OBE.

We want every corporate member of eiNetwork club to 'match-fund' a member like Khadija, so that we can enlarge the group of individuals who, like her, become 'early risers'.

We are also looking for two headline partners for the whole programme, and have plans we are happy to share with you.

Please contact julia@editorialintelligence.com for further information.

Club membership details can be found on www.editorialintelligence.com

Snapshot of the ei Community, 2016/2017

We have built the eiNetwork community up over more than a decade. We have run over a thousand suppers, salons and symposiums and the following individuals are a snapshot of both the corporate and 'solopreneur' community who join eiClub but also the academics, writers, thinkers, mover and shakers who have attended our events.

We are pleased to help connect young people with what founder Julia Hobsbawm calls simply 'The Interesting and the Interested'.

David Aaronovitch – Commentator, The Times
Gloria Abramoff – MD, Tonic Productions
Yomi Adegoke – Freelance Writer
Tom Adeyoola – CEO & Founder, Metail
Louise Ahuja – Director, Lansons
Yasmin Alibhai-Brown – Columnist & Author
Shoku Amirani – Producer, BBC
Susan Angoy – Author, Mentor & Charitable Board Trustee
Ivor Baddiel- Scriptwriter and author
Diane Banks – Literary Agent, Diane Banks Associates
Stephen Barber – Group MD & Group Head of Communications, Pictet Group
Oli Barrett MBE – Director, Co-Sponsorship Agency & Make Your Mark with a Tenner
Sarah Baxter – Deputy Editor, The Sunday Times
Sir Peter Bazalgette – Chair, Arts Council England
Charles Begley – Executive Director, City & Westminster Property Association
Sir Win Bischoff - Chairman, Financial Reporting Council
Prof. Sue Black – Director, Leverhulme Research Centre for Forensic Science and Deputy Principal, University of Dundee
Charlie Burgess – Editorial Director, Editorial Intelligence
Alison Burns – Executive Director UK, Aviva
Clemency Burton-Hill - Broadcaster and Journalist
Tom Cheal – Political Editor, LBC
Henry Chevallier Guild – Director, Aspall Cyder Ltd
Louisa Clarke – Director, The Caffeine Partnership
Richard Collins – Partner, Charles Russell Speechlys
Zaki Cooper – Director of Philanthropy & Communications, Dorman Family Office
Carolyn Dailey - Founder, The Dailey Partnership
Dana Denis-Smith – Entrepreneur, Founder, Obelisk Support
Jeremy Dodd – Director, Southern Clocks Ltd
William Eccleshare – Chief Executive, Clear Channel Outdoor Holdings
Daniel Erasmus - Founder and Director, Digital Thinking Network (DTN) and Erasmus.io
Dr. Eliza Filby – Writer & Historian
Elizabeth Filippouli – Founder & CEO, Global Thinkers
Patrick Fleming – Head of Business Change, The British Library

Claire Fox – Director, Institute of Ideas
Sarah Frost – Portfolio Career Owner: writer, project manager, charity volunteer
Jane Garvey – Presenter, BBC Radio 4
John Gordon – CEO, How To Academy
Viv Groskop – Writer and broadcaster
Patricia Hamzahee – Founder, Integriti Capital
Sir John Hegarty – Founder, Bogle Bartle Hegarty & Garage
Tommy Helsby – Chairman, Kroll
Elaine Heslop - Director, Custom Executive Education, Saïd Business School
Margaret Hill – Former Chief Adviser Editorial Policy, BBC
Tim Johns – Partner, Change Agency
Roly Keating – Executive Director, British Library
Roman Krznaric – Author & Founder of the Empathy Museum
Helen Lederer – Actress, writer and comedian
Ollie Lloyd - Partner & Executive Vice President, Brown Lloyd James
Joy Lo Dico – Londoner's Diary Editor, Evening Standard
Tom Maddocks – Director, Media Training Associates
Bronwen Maddox – Chief Executive, Institute for Government
Simon Matthews – Founder, Matters
Dr. Dambisa Moyo – Global Economist & Author
Richard Ovenden – Bodley's Librarian, Bodleian Libraries, University of Oxford
Ben Page – CEO, Ipsos Mori
Judy Piatkus – Founder, Conscious Café
Elif Shafak – Writer
William Sieghart CBE – Chairman, Somerset House; Founder, Forward Prizes for Poetry & National Poetry Day; Author
Jon Snow – Newscaster, Channel 4 News
Wendell Steavenson – Writer
Dixi Stewart – Editorial Lead, BBC Radio and Music
Deb Thomson – Deputy Bureau Chief, CBS News
Brigitte Trafford – Chief Corporate Affairs Officer, Virgin Media
Frank Trentmann – Professor of History, Birkbeck College
Iona Wolff - Photographer
Peter York – Social Commentator & Observer